Music Written by Peter I. Tchaikovsky

Based on E.T.A Hoffman's tale The Nutcracker and the Mouse King

Artistic Director ~ Teresa Taylor

Benicia Ballet Theatre supports and encourages local artists to develop their talents by providing non-discriminatory performance opportunities within the Benicia, Vallejo, North and East Bay communities. All auditions are equal opportunity. Inspiring dance productions serve the local communities by making quality cultural activities open, affordable, and accessible to all residents and visitors to the area. The purpose of the organization is to provide public charitable and educational programs with no political involvement.

Letter From Artistic Director

Season's Greetings!

As the year draws to a close, it's a time to reflect on what we are most grateful for—and we at Benicia Ballet Theatre are incredibly grateful for YOU! Your ongoing support of our dancers, staff, and programs means the world to us. Through our performances, especially our beloved Nutcracker, we create more than just an event—we foster a community united by a shared goal and a love of dance.

The journey leading up to each performance is about so much more than learning choreography. It's about teamwork, perseverance, bravery, and the ability to think on your toes. It's about overcoming obstacles and pushing through nerves. For many of our dancers, achieving the roles they aspire to is the culmination of years of dedication and self-discipline—qualities that are not always easy to cultivate in today's fast-paced world. Becoming a proficient dancer requires a decade of hard work, sacrifice, and unwavering commitment, and we are so grateful to be on this journey alongside so many talented young people.

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to our Board of Directors, whose tireless efforts behind the scenes make everything possible. From organizing to fundraising, goal-setting, and ensuring that our mission to provide dance instruction and performance opportunities to the North Bay community remains strong, their dedication brings our Nutcracker to life each year. This is our 34th production, and we are thrilled to share it with you!

As you experience this year's Nutcracker, I hope you are inspired to carry its message of joy, acceptance, and kindness into the world. May it remind you to spread cheer to those around you and offer generosity wherever you can.

A special thank you to my husband, John Metellus, for his unwavering support of this journey, and to our incredible staff at Benicia Ballet, who pour their hearts into every class, rehearsal, and performance. We also extend our deepest gratitude to our volunteers—without you, we could not produce a show of this scale and quality. Finally, to the parents of our dancers, we thank you for your constant support in ways both big and small. From fulfilling fundraising and volunteering requirements to running children between classes and rehearsals, providing snacks, and cheering on your dancers, your dedication does not go unnoticed.

Wishing you all a joyful holiday season!

Warmest regards,
Teresa Taylor
Artistic Director

The Nutcracker

Act 1 ~ Overture

It is the eve of the Stahlbaums Annual Holiday party and the family is about to welcome their guests. Soon Frau and Dr. Stahlbaum along with their two children, kindhearted Clara and unruly Marie, friends, and family will fill their great hall to celebrate the season of giving.

Act 1 ~ Scene 1, The Holiday Party

Dr. and Frau Stahlbaum have invited a special guest, Drosselmeyer, Clara's godfather and master toy maker. Mysterious Drosselmeyer always demonstrates his creations and this year is no exception — perhaps his most dazzling yet. He's brought life sized dolls which come to life, if only for a brief moment. Mesmerized by the magic of the beautiful Ballerina doll, fiery Tarantella, and the Toy Soldier and the Toy Soldier's recruits, Clara asks if she might keep one. To her disappointment, none of these marvelous creations are for her and she begins to weep in disappointment. Drosselmeyer then presents his gift for Clara, a stoic Nutcracker doll. Clara loves it! Marie, unhappy with her gift, wonders why Clara gets such a magnificent toy. Surely she will let me play with it, Marie thinks. Quickly, years of sibling rivalry displays itself as a pursuit of this prized possession ensues. Before we know it, Clara and Marie are in an out right tug of war and the Nutcracker slips through Clara's hands and Marie drops it to the floor. Embarrassed by this behavior, Marie is sent to bed before the party comes to an end. Crafty Drosselmeyer bandages the broken toy and advises Clara that at midnight the doll will be fixed. The guests depart. The Stahlbaums wish Clara a good night as they sit together with their dear friend Drosselmeyer as he tinkers with the broken toy.

Act 1 ~ Scene 2, The Battle and Snow Scene

Marie can't sleep. She decides to go to the great hall and finds the Nutcracker still broken and bandaged. She cradles the Nutcracker, wishing she could take back her impulsive actions. While the family sleeps, mischief is simply too irresistible for the mice... Marie is brought out of her reverie by a stirring sound and to her astonishment, the great hall is crawling with the largest mice she's ever seen! She runs out of the room teased by the mice. As the clock strikes midnight, Clara enters the great hall looking for the Nutcracker, when suddenly the mice return. Clara looks to hide from the scurrying creatures when, to her relief, Drosselmeyer arrives. She tells him of the huge mice and he calls his Toy Soldiers to come to her aid, but her Nutcracker is nowhere to be found. Suddenly the Nutcracker appears, and is magically larger than life! Protected by the Nutcracker and his cavalry, Clara feels ready to face the unusually large rodents, that is, until the Mouse Queen arrives! The Mouse Queen wants nothing more than to capture the Nutcracker, when suddenly it's Clara who must lead the Toy Soldiers to save her beloved Nutcracker. The mice are cunning and victory for either side seems possible when Clara decides enough is enough and forces the dueling sides to come to a truce.

Now that the fighting is over, Clara sees something familiar about that Mouse Queen — Why, it is an enchanted Marie! Clara reaches out to Marie, who saved the Nutcracker from impending doom. She showers all the love and forgiveness she can muster and the siblings make up. Unbeknownst to Clara, the Nutcracker is revealed to be the Royal Guard of the Sugar Plum Fairy from the Land of Sweets, who has been trapped in the body of the toy Nutcracker for far too long. The children must return the Nutcracker to the Land of Sweets to release him from the enchantment. The Snow Crystals, having heard the battle, offer introduction to the Snow Queen who can ensure safe passage through the treacherous blizzard in the Kingdom of Snow.

INTERMISSION

Act 2 ~ Land of the Sweets

Sugar Plum Fairy attendants and Angels light the night sky to the pavilion of the Sugar Plum Fairy castle where Harlequins merrily keep the court pleased with their performance. The Kingdom Attendants announce the Stars have news of the Nutcracker's return. The Sugar Plum Attendants guide a sleigh to the palace carrying the Nutcracker and the two children through the Land of the Sweets. Along the way they are greeted by residents of this magical kingdom. The Sugar Plum Fairy emerges and inquires about the Nutcracker and the status they find themselves in. Clara and Marie relay their story to the court who finds that the enchantment for the Nutcracker must be broken. With a flick of the Sugar Plum Fairy's wand, the Royal Guard is freed. To show her appreciation, the Sugar Plum Fairy asks the residents to entertain the guests as an offer of their gratitude. In addition, the Royal Guard displays their dazzling saber handling and the Sugar Plum Fairy graces them with her quick footwork. While the children have enjoyed their time in the Kingdom of Sweets, it is time to return home.

Epilogue

Clara and Marie are back at the Stahlbaum home where they are sleeping. Drosselmeyer appears and places the good-as-new Nutcracker in Clara's arms. She wakes to find herself in her own home and is delighted to find her Nutcracker safely tucked under her arm no longer broken. Clara embraces the gift that has brought her so much joy. But when her eyes lift long enough to notice Marie, she knows that her heart would be complete by giving the toy to Marie, her beloved sister.
